

Admissions Application Frequently Asked Questions

1. What is the class structure and student-teacher ratio at the school?
Each year level has four classes. Secondary 1 (S.1) classes have approximately 32 students each. Each class is assigned two form teachers who meticulously attend to students' learning and developmental needs.
2. How are new Secondary 1 students allocated to classes?
All new S.1 students are allocated to the four classes based on ability to ensure balanced distribution. The school organizes an orientation day and a series of bridging programs to help students adapt to the new environment and build peer relationships.
3. What percentage of total S1 places are allocated for "Discretionary Places" each year?
"Discretionary Places" account for approximately 30% of the total S1 intake. For the 2026/27 academic year, the school offers 40 "Discretionary Places".
4. What are the criteria for being invited to an interview for S1 Discretionary Places?
Applicants should have demonstrated good conduct and academic performance during their primary school education.
5. Will all applicants for S1 Discretionary Places be interviewed?
The school will arrange interviews for all applicants.
6. What is the format of the S1 Discretionary Places interview?
The interview is conducted individually and in both English and Cantonese.
7. What is the curriculum structure at the school?
Our curriculum focuses on establishing a broad and solid knowledge foundation. The junior secondary curriculum covers Chinese Language, English Language, Mathematics, Science, Humanities, Technology, Arts, and Physical Education. The senior secondary curriculum includes four core subjects (Chinese Language, English Language, Mathematics, and Citizenship and Social Development) and up to thirteen elective subjects (including Mathematics Extended Module M2). Students may choose three electives based on their ability and interests.
8. How does the school promote students' whole-person development?
Our school fosters whole-person development through the "LKTMC" framework. We cultivate a caring and respectful culture through Love (Benevolence), building the foundation of student character. Knowledge inspires lifelong learning and critical thinking, consolidating academic foundations. Teamwork develops communication and collaboration skills, strengthening social adaptability. Mindfulness practice enhances emotional regulation and psychological resilience, promoting self-awareness. Creativity stimulates innovative thinking and problem-solving abilities. These five core values are integrated throughout the curriculum, activities, and campus life, dedicated to nurturing future talents with solid knowledge, emotional intelligence, collaborative skills, and innovative spirit, equipping them with comprehensive qualities to contribute to society.
9. What is the medium of instruction at the school?
Our school is an English-medium secondary school. Most subjects are taught in English. Subjects taught in Chinese (Chinese Language, Chinese History, Citizenship and Social Development, Citizenship, Citizenship, Economics and Society, and Tourism and Hospitality) use Cantonese as the medium of instruction (except for the Putonghua subject).

10. How can a student apply for mid-year transfer/placement?

Our school accepts transfer applications for Secondary 2 to Secondary 5 levels throughout the year. Interested applicants may submit the application form together with the required documents to the General Office during office hours.

11. What are the arrangements for student lunch?

All students are not required to have lunch on campus.
